SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Martin Hummell, of Bloomfield, Injured.

Martin Hummell, a coal dealer in Bloomfield, drove to Newark last Sunday with a two-seat wagon and a pair of jet black horses, accompanied by his wife and a grown up son. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon, after having called upon several acquaintances, Mr. Hummell was driving through Holland street, in the direction of Springfield Avenue, when the horses became frightened at a large sheet of paper carried in front of them by the wind, and ran away. Mr. Hummell guided his team in the middle of the street until they turned into Springfield Avenue, and took a down-town direction. Just then a horse-car was going up a short distance east of Holland street, and the driver seeing that the runaway team would collide with his car, quickly detached his horses from the car and turned them out of the way. A moment later the threatened collision came, and his force broke the front axle of Mr. Hummell's wagon, and threw him over the dash board, where he became so entangled that he was dragged for some distance over the ragged telford on his stomach. Finally, when the frantic horses were stopped, it was found that Mr. Hummell was insensible from his injuries. He was taken up quickly by residents of that vicinity who witnessed the affair, and Dr. Gunther, who was summoned, found that his stomach had been torn open, and that the intestines protruded. His right leg was also broken and there were a number of bleeding wounds upon his head. The police ambulance was summoned, and he was taken to the German Hospital, where he now lies in a precarious condition. At noon to-day it was hardly thought that he could recover. His wife and son received no injury worth mentioning, and they returned to Bloomfield.

County Items.

Montclair.

John M. Wheeler Post, No. 94, G. A. R., was organized Monday evening, with Wm. H. Corby as Commander, Geo. H. Hayden, Senior Vice, and other officers. About twenty members were present, and Grand Commander Nevins and staff conducted the service. Members were present from Orange and Newark, and after the meeting a collation was served.

The public school has contributed $32 to the Bartholdi funds, and the town has raised $138.—The Mount Hebron School district has voted $1,700 as a special tax.—Mrs. Pinney and her daughters are to sail for Antwerp, on the 30th inst. They are going direct to Geneva, Switzerland, where they expect to remain until October, Miss Grace for study and the others for rest.—Mrs. Houston has been arrested for the illegal sale of liquor. She was caught by her back hair while descending a trap door into the cellar in trying to escape.—The Presbyterian Church Trustees have prepared a reply to Dr. Berry's comments upon their action, but have not made it public.—Burglars are again at work, having entered the house of Mr. Hawes and tried to enter those of Mr. Burgess and Mr. Hall.—The District Telegraph wires and instruments have been attached.

East Orange.

The house of Mr. J. H. Greenfield, on Hamilton street was entered Wednesday morning at 3 o'clock by two burglars, who effected an entrance by pushing back the catch on the dining-room window, which they reached by means of a short ladder. One of the burglars then went up stairs to the room occupied by several members of the family and took the clothes down stairs to the other robber, who searched them while his confederate again went up stairs, this time to the room occupied by Mr. Greenfield. While he was engaged in securing Mr. Greenfield's clothes Mrs. Greenfield was awakened by the noise made by the robbers and aroused her husband, and the burglar ran down stairs, and with his companion sprang from the window through which they came, taking Mr. Greenfield's clothes with them. The clothes were afterwards found in the yard. The thieves took nothing but money, of which they secured a considerable sum; and left watches and jewelry by which they might have been traced, untouched. No clue was left by which the personality of the robbers could be traced the only thing known concerning them being that one had a very large foot and the other a very small one, this fact being demonstrated by footprints in the flower bed where they jumped from the window. A number of other houses in this neighborhood were visited by the burglars previous to their successful exploit, but in each case they were frightened away. The burglars also entered the house of Mr. Henry Cadmus on Prospect Street, where they also effected an entrance through a dining-room window. Here, after abstracting some money from clothes and satchels, they escaped without alarming the people living in the house.

Freeholders Organize.

The first meeting of the Board of Freeholders of 1885-6 was held last Wednesday. The organization of the Board was effected, and there was an exciting contest over the Collectors, several Republicans bolting. The Board was called to order shortly after 11 o'clock by Oba Woodruff, the Clerk of the last Board, who called the roll of the members, and Arthur E. Sanford, of Belleville, was elected Temporary Chairman. The rules of the last Board were adopted for the government of the Board.

Mr. Conklin, on behalf of the Republican members of the Board, nominated Edwin W. Hine, of Orange, for director, and Mr. Thomas Smith, on behalf of the Democrats, nominated William N. Williams, of West Orange. A ballot was taken resulting as follows: Hine, 24; Williams, 14. Mr. Hine was declared elected, and Messrs. Conklin and William N. Williams were appointed to escort him to the chair.

The Republicans nominated Oba Woodruff for Clerk, and the Democrats Joseph Atkinson. Mr. Woodruff received 23 votes, and Mr. Atkinson 13. Mr. Woodruff was declared elected. Salaries of county officers were fixed as follows: County Collector, $1,800; Counsel, $500; Engineer, $1,500; Auditor, $2,000; Penitentiary Physician, $400; Jail Physician, $400; Clerk of the Board, $500; Janitor of the Court House, $1,000; Resident Physician of the Asylum, $1,000; members of the Road Board, $2 per day each. When the matter of the Road Board salaries was called up, Mr. Sanford said he thought that the salary should be $2 for each day actually employed, and that as the matter now stands, the members of the Road Board can, if they choose charge for service every day of the year; and he claimed that they should give an itemized bill for services, as the law contemplates. Mr. Peck, one of the Road Board, said he had never made a charge that was not proper, and that when he served on the Road Board and the Freeholders on the same day, he was entitled to compensation for both services.

The Paterson Guardian says: "Mr. George F. Gleason, the new proprietor of the Hamilton House, has completely changed the appearance of the interior of the building. He has made a regular hotel office and reading room of the old restaurant on Colt street, put in a magnificent bar, renovated the ceilings and added many other improvements. The place will be formally opened on Monday night. Mr. Gleason has been a manufacturing jeweler in Newark all his life, and this is his first venture in the hotel business, but he talks and acts as if he were a man who would succeed in almost anything."

A museum in this city possesses a double-headed cow. This doesn't seem a paralyzing sort of a curiosity, when it is remembered that a number of Pittsburgh orphans possess double skulls.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegram.

"What is economy?" asks the Philadelphia North American. "We'll tell you. It's paying ten cents for a cigar, and compelling your wife to turn her last season's dress to make it do for another winter. The country is fairly bulging with such economy."—Norristown Herald.

Mr. Smith was elected on the thirty-eighth ballot, at 2.30 P. M., and another contest on County Council then began which resulted in Mr. Riker's election.

Who Can Answer?

Editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer:
No. 6 Avenue Friedland, Paris, 23d Dec., 1884.—Sir: Can you or any of your readers help me to elucidate a mystery?

It has been stated to me by an officer who was there present—

First, That at the battle of Gaines Mills, June 27, 1862, a regiment, the Fourth New Jersey, Colonel Simpson, was taken from the command of Brigadier-General George W. Taylor, First Brigade, First Division Sixth Corps, by an A. D. C. of the Commander-in-Chief, led into the woods and there captured in lobo, the A. D. C. who directed the march of the column alone escaping.

Second, That the A. D. C. in question was the Count de Paris, then on the staff of General McClellan, and that said Count de Paris, having been requested by said officer to explain how he did it, has never deigned to reply.

Third, That the incident, but without mention of the name of the A. D. C., is related in Brigadier-General George W. Taylor's report of the battle, dated 4th of July, 1862, and addressed to Captain H. C. Rogers, chief of staff to General Slocum, who commanded the division.

This incident, told by me in a private letter written last year to a friend, was published by him recently, and has created a mighty sensation among the Orleanists, who have produced letters from Generals McClellan and Keyes, and from one Whittier, certifying to the courage of their prince, but evading the question. Who was the man who took the order in executing which Colonel Simpson's regiment was captured?

Probably some survivor of the Fourth New Jersey, or some one who was connected with the brigade or the division staff may know something about the affair, and if so, will he kindly give me some information, either directly, or, with your permission, through the columns of the Inquirer.

Faithfully yours, CARROLL TEVIE.

Journalism must be a healthy profession, said old Mrs. Squaggs as she laid the paper on her knee and rubbed her eyeglasses with her apron. "What makes you think so?" said old Mr. Squaggs. "Because Lee the writers who used to have pieces in the papers when I was a girl are still living and writing away the same as ever; they must be very old."

"Who are they?" asked Mrs. Squaggs. "Well, there is 'Veritas,' for one, and Anon, and 'Vox Populi,' and 'Pro Bono Publico,' and many others. I see some of these names every day, and I declare if the sight of 'em don't bring back the old school days."

Then the old lady gazed meditatively into the fire, and old Mr. Squaggs went out on to the back stoop to indulge in a quiet laugh to himself.—Boston Courier.
